During the MISD Bilingual Instructional Sessions the BIA will be generally following the sequence below:

1. Conversation in English
2. Asking the child what he needs to know RIGHT NOW.
(This may be done in the child's native language)
3. Review of previously learned materials.
4. Instruction in vocabulary and pronunciation.
5. Language instruction from ESL materials.
6. Review of new material learned today i.e.
 - a. Give the student a model of the sentence structure several times
 - b. Be sure student watches and listens.
 - c. Together repeat sentence structure in chorus.
 - d. Student says it alone

Working with limited English-proficient (LEP) students who speak a language other than English in the home.

It is important that the concepts are taught, especially to younger non-English speaking children, in their native tongue. Then, teach the English words for the concepts. The bilingual instructional assistants will avoid working in areas of the curriculum where the concept has not been taught in the classroom or in areas where the child has not learned a concept unless the teacher tells them to introduce the concept. For example, if the student can not tell time in his native tongue, he will need to learn the concept before he can use the English words for telling time.

MISD Bilingual Instructional Assistants will stress the aural-oral and whole language approach. If the student is ready to work with written and reading materials, the teacher should provide classroom materials for those more advanced students. If the student is unable to function with regular classroom materials, the Bilingual Instructional Assistant will bring ESL materials for the tutorial lesson.

MISD Bilingual Instructional Assistants will teach ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE; The student learns academics (science, math, social studies, etc.) in the regular classroom.

Try to schedule some time to talk to the Bilingual Instructional Assistant who works with students assigned to your classroom to coordinate the tutorial sessions with what you are teaching in the classroom.

Points to remember when teaching English skills:

Don't talk too slowly or with exaggerated pauses between words.

Speak in your natural voice and rhythm, but make sure you speak clearly enough so the child may copy you. Don't speak overly loud, the child is not hard of hearing.

Teaching short from replies, before teaching full sentence replies. You may use sentence patterns for early teaching for non-English speaking students.

Praise the child for the English skills he already has and for the efforts he makes to use English. Use what he knows to teach the things he does not know.

Provide ample practice and repetition.

Make sure the student is actively involved in every lesson.

Use activities as much as possible.

Have the student make a booklet titled "My English Book" with lessons that other students and/or parents can practice with him. (See the next section.)

My English Book

An English Lesson Sequence

for

Beginning English
Limited Proficient Students

Following is a suggested set of lesson plans based on the Survival English Assessment given earlier in this manual. These lessons can be made into a booklet titled “My English Book” and personalized for the child by having the Bilingual Instructional Assistant prepare the page with the student’s native language to correspond with the English sentence pattern.

Practice and repetition could be provided during the mainstream classroom with classroom buddies asking the questions and the limited English proficient student answering the questions. This is a pattern language drill technique used in teaching English as a Second Language.
