

Classroom Assessment for Student Learning

For Classroom Teachers and Special Education Teachers

This series is based on the work of Richard Stiggins, using his book Classroom Assessment for Student Learning-Doing It Right-Using It Well.

The three sessions are approximately one month apart to give participants time to use their learning in the classroom. Participants will be expected to share their experiences at each session.

The program is designed to build:

- ✓ A deep understanding of the difference between sound and unsound classroom assessment; and,
- ✓ The effective use of assessment as a teaching tool.

The session will address:

- ◆ Assessment for Learning
- ◆ Developing and communicating clear targets
- ◆ Designing assessments for your classroom
- ◆ Assessment methods and quality
- ◆ Scoring Tools-rubrics, checklists, etc.
- ◆ Balancing assessments for and of learning
- ◆ Student responsibility and motivation
- ◆ Communicating about student learning
- ◆ Technology tools for assessment and data management
- ◆ Classroom assessment and school improvement
