The Literacy for Instructional Leaders series is specifically designed for district and building leaders who want to design a cohesive PreK-12 literacy plan that changes classroom practice. Using the MISD Literacy Framework and the research of McREL's Balanced Leadership[®], participants will learn how building a purposeful community, effectively managing change, and focusing on the right work ultimately lead to the implementation of a guaranteed and viable district curriculum.

The series consists of five full days of training. While the emphasis will be on the understanding and implementation of a districtwide literacy plan, the framework that guides the development of the plan can be used for any initiative a district may undertake. The incorporation of McREL's Balanced Leadership[®] training provides district and school leaders with the knowledge, skills, and practices to stay the course.
